A bill will be introduced into the legislature which will provide that the term of office of all county officials shall be four years. No doubt this will meet with the approval of the present incumbents, especially if it effects their term in office.

There are twenty men who lost both arms in the late war who draw a commutation for artificial arms. The house intend to give the same commutation to men who lost both hands, and raise their pensions from $75 to $100 per month.

The Indians on the Cour d'O'Reilla reservation north of Eau Claire, Wis., are engaged in logging this winter and have already banked 35,000,000 feet. If all Indians were as industrious they might be of some account and their extermination would not be a necessity.

The lumber outlook for the ensuing year is exceedingly bright. The lumber manufacture is the pioneer business in Northern Minnesota and is yet the principal industry. The log cut will be the largest for some years and with the present body of snow the indications are that there will be plenty of water in the spring to float every log to market that will be banked this winter.

The legislative committee of the Knights of Labor have presented President Cleveland with a petition asking his veto to the interstate commerce bill. The knights find a great many objectionable features in the bill, for instance, the commission clause, the clause giving arbitrary power to commissioners, and the exclusion giving federal courts to hear and determine the act, and the general tone of uncertainty that pervades the entire list of clauses of the bill.

The Tribune, in its school boy way, instead of producing the evidence with which to literally crush us out of existence, endeavors to make the public believe that they desire to bet a sum of money on several different propositions which they make themselves. If such was the case, and if they did not lie when they claimed to have seen our editorial in the Philadelphia Press, why did they not come over with a V and make $95? The fact is, they couldn't prove it, and the blustering bluff they published last week gives the whole thing away. This little controversy has not been without effect, however, for they only stole two items bodily from our paper last week, and we think there is a chance for their ultimate recovery from the practice if they will only exert themselves a little.

Should Become a Law.
Representative Lum, of Crow Wing county, has introduced two important bills in the present session. One provides for the formation of the Fourteenth judicial district, detached from the Eleventh, and composed of the counties of Becker, Clay, Norman, Polk, Marshall and Kittson counties. The other bill provides for the formation of the Fifteenth judicial district, composed of the counties of Aitkin, Crow Wing, Cass, Itasca, Beltrami and Wadena. As a matter of justice these two measures should become a law.—Wadena Tribune.

By Mr. Lum.
The following bills have been introduced in the legislature by Hon. Leon E. Lum during the past week: Relating to amendment of section 13 of penal code. Relating to a bridge at Ft. Ripley to cost $700 if constructed. Relating to act of incorporation of city of Brainerd. Relating to construction of roads in Cass and Itasca counties.

Was Dare Bounced.
If there is anything more idiotic for grown people than going around with a lumberman's suit on, and "bouncing" inoffensive and peaceable citizens in a blanket, we would like to have somebody arise and explain what it is.—Elk River Star-News.

Queer Mail Matter.

"We caught the mail in dead earnest the other day" said a mail agent on the Northern Pacific route. "One of the small places where we catch the mail is between Bozeman and Billings, Mont. About two weeks ago the man who works the hook on the car saw what he supposed to be a mail bag suspended from the arm of the scaffold at the latter town in question. We were running pretty fast, considering the hard wheeling, and it took us but a jiffy to grab the dangling sack. It fell upon the floor of the car like a log. A glance at the sack was sufficient to satisfy us that it contained something more solid than letters or papers. The sack was ripped open and out rolled the dead body of a man—a man with red beard and heavy, shaggy eye brows. The body was frozen stiff, it having hung all night from the arm of the scaffold. There were three bullet holes in the man's breast, two more through his neck and one in his forehead. The body lay on the left side of the dead man's coat was a piece of brown paper, which bore these words:

THIS IS A HORSE THIEF.
SNATCH
HIM BALD HEADED.

"That was the queerest piece of mail matter we ever caught. We took the corpse to Billings, where we turned it over to the coroner. Suppose the fellow had been caught stealing horses, and shot on the spot. They have a cheerful way out in that country of forwarding an objectionable corpse to a neighboring town."—Chicago Herald.

Felling the California Redwood
Harper's Weekly: "Now she takes it; keep clear!" shouted Jim Lane, a muscular Sonoma "bull-whacker" in warning to the group of woodchoppers in the redwood forests at the northern end of the San Francisco and North Pacific railroad, as the dead rattle of a California giant was heard. After hours of undercutting and cross sawing they had cut through all but about one and a half inches of the monstrous trunk fifteen feet in diameter, and the cracking of the wood announced that the monarch was about to fall. Its lofty top, 275 feet above the ground, wavered and trembled, and then, with a steady air, like a grand lady courtesying, then gathering impetus as it left the perpendicular the great trunk rushed to the earth with terrific force. Keeping to the course marked for it by the woodsmen, it tore down the trunk of the preceding limb, filled the air with flying branches and bits of bark, swept away every article in its path, and descended with tremendous force, struck the ground with a thud to be heard a mile. Clouds of dust shot up sixty feet, the earth shook and trembled, and the prospect grew trembled once and all was over. It was a death scene of awful grandeur and solemnity. Even the lumbermen, accustomed to the sight daily, dropped their sledges, double bitted axes, mallets, gads and water buckets and gazed in silence at the overthrow of the many centuries monarch.

My Favorite Receipt.

Some time ago the Royal Baking Powder Co. conceived the idea of collecting from its patrons, for distribution among them when printed in a book form, their best and favorite methods for the preparation of articles of food of all descriptions. In response there were furnished a very large number of practical receipts. From these were selected the 3,000 contained in the book entitled "My Favorite Receipt." The publication was intended originally for the contributors only, but the collection proved to be of such remarkable value that its publishers believed its circulation would be productive of good in affording a larger knowledge as to the practical preparation of real home cookery in a way to make it most wholesome and appetizing, have issued an edition for general circulation, which is sold at cost of production, and postage.

My Favorite Receipt is a book of recipes for the preparation of almost every known dish in every conceivable way. These have been classified into department representing Soups and Broths, Fish and Shell Fish, Vegetable, Meats, Stews, Poultry and Game, Eggs, Salads, Desserts, Bread, Cakes, Condiments, Beverages, Ices, Preserves and Pickles, Preserved Meats, Canned Vegetables, etc., to which a copious index is added. Every branch of the culinary art has received ample attention. The publication is one of unusual value, from the fact that the recipes are thoroughly tested formulas of genuine home cookery. In each contributor vouches for the utility of her receipt not only, but attests that years of experience have proven it to be the best way of making the article named, and signs her name and address to it as an evidence of its genuineness and her faith in its superiority.

The practical character of the receipts will especially commend them to American housekeepers. While cookery of the very finest and richest, as well as that more plain and economical, is provided for, "My Favorite Receipt" is not, like many of the cook books of the day, a collection of impracticable, untried, or foreign formulas, following which frequently results in a failure and a waste of good materials. The contributors are from every part of the country and give the best experience of the best cooks for preparing the dishes peculiar to each locality.

"My Favorite Receipt" handsomely printed and bound, is sent by the Royal Baking Powder Co., New York, at the nominal price of 50 cents, to any address, express charges paid.

The Art of Appearing Well.

There is nothing upon which a woman expends more thought, time and expense than in her endeavor to appear well in public. There is nothing more attractive in the world than a healthy glow of cheek, a well rounded form and elastic step in a woman. Ornaments and decorations look out of place on a person of pale face, fragile form and languid movements. These things may cover some defects, but there is an absence of eternal fitness of things. There are hundreds of ladies whose lives are ebbing slowly away, and leaving them "wrecks of their former selves," who might be saved from this "living death" by the use of that invigorating tonic, Swift's Specific. There are a number of the finest looking ladies in Atlanta to-day who a few years ago were perfect physical wrecks, but whose health have been restored by this wonderful remedy. No one who looks upon their magnificent forms and cheerful countenances to-day would suspect that these were the parties who a few months ago were praying to die, but it is so. They are ready to admit that Swift's Specific saved their lives and saved them from untold suffering. One of them remarked recently that "if it had not been for the S. S. tonic I would have been in my grave long before now." Mrs. J. F. Bradley, of Detroit, Mich., says: "Every bottle of S. S. S. is worth a thousand times its weight in gold." Mrs. Sarah E. Turner, of Tennessee, says: "S. S. S. snatched me from the grave when I was dying." N. Y. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

Not Improbable.

Representative Flynn thinks that after three weeks of legislative work he would find more real enjoyment roughing it in his tie camp up north than in making laws with $10 worth of postage stamps thrown in. For an active business man to come down to the dull, tedious routine legislative work is a hard thing, even though he may have material interests in that legislation. Mr. Flynn is a hard worker with the hope of securing the soldiers' home of the state at Ft. Ripley. It is not improbable that he may be successful.—Pioneer Press.

NEW PARASOLS.

Novel Designs in Shapes, Materials, Linings and Knobs.

There is a remarkable variety in the new parasols made after the latest Parisian fancies. The ribs are very drooping, forming a dome shape. The latest craze is the shape of the sharp points of the sea-saw's wings. One of these is covered with black figured grenadine embroidered with jets in the shape of small diamonds. The spaces between the ribs—of which there are very few—are filled in with flounces of rich black guipure lace extending all around the handle. The handle is carved wood. Another of the same transparent black fabric is lined with thin gold-colored silk. There are others of the same shape of beaded satin, one of which is covered with a light wood carved in designs of plumes of two shades of drab. One of the most beautiful and charming styles is covered with a black Chantilly lace flounce gathered full on top at the stick; there is no lining, and the rich fall of this lace, as well as of the others, takes the place of a veil. A black satin parasol is decorated on each breadth with a large butterfly made of black lace, and a wide black lace flounce completes the edge. Among the charming creamy white styles is one embroidered all over with white silk in tiny designs; the knob on top, an acorn, together with the stick, is white hollyhock engraved with black incised lines, and another style is like the jeweler's fine Niello work. The fashionable tints of yellow, such as dandelion, primrose and buttercup, are seen covered with rich black Spanish lace flounces in two rows. These are changeable satin to chimes on gold parasol frames bordered with three narrow lines of silver tint. Fine embroidered porgies are dotted over with small wooden beads, and the curved ribs take a dome shape. Other handsome styles are in Pekin satin stripes and light-colored cotton tissues embroidered over with silver tinsel spots.

The styles of knots attached to handles are of great variety, each with glittering gold-stone, etched designs in silver, repousse, Chinoiserie, porcelain, marble from California, and a close imitation of dark bronze wrought in various styles. Coquettish little carriage umbrellas seem like a collection of bright-winged butterflies. These are novel, in having telescopic handles, and are a mass of lace and pretty silks and satins.—N. Y. Tribune.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents.

The river and harbor bill has passed the house of representatives thanks to Knute Nelson.

The representatives of county fair who met in St. Paul this week, decided to ask the legislature for $24,000—instead of $12,000.
